

10 Aspects of Change Impact

- 1. Processes - the actions or steps taken to achieve a defined end or outcome; e.g. registration process for a training program
- 2. Systems - a combination of people and automated applications organized to meet a set of objectives; e.g. Customer Relations Management (CRM) system
- 3. Tools - an item or implement(n) used for a specific purpose; e.g. can be a physical object/tool (drill) or a technical object (web authoring tool)
- 4. Job roles - a description of what a person does, including competencies essential to performing well in that job capacity; e.g. client services role responsible for engaging directly with clients
- 5. Critical behaviors - vital or essential response of an individual or group to an action, environment, person or stimulus; e.g. the actions of a client services associate to identify client needs and engage with other team members to collaborate on solutions
- 6. Mindset/attitudes/beliefs - a mental inclination, disposition or frame of mind reflected in behaviors; e.g. changing from a transactional mode of serving customers to a relational mode to improve client loyalty and retention
- 7. Reporting structure - the authority relationships in a company or organization, i.e. who reports to whom; e.g. moving from regional sales teams to a global services team with a different executive leader
- 8. Performance reviews - the process and indicators of how performance is measured and assessed relative to objectives; e.g. introducing specific client retention and advocacy objectives for client services associates
- 9. Compensation - the amount of the monetary and non-monetary pay provided in return for work performed; e.g. commission structure and bonus plan for client services associates
- 10. Location - a physical geographical place that provides facilities for a stated purpose; e.g. consolidation of all client services associates from three regional locations to one floor of the corporate office

An initiative may or may not impact all these aspects but by systematically working through the list you will be able to define both what is and what is not changing as well as surface important aspects of the change you need to consider.

Note: Any aspect that is not impacted by the change (rated 0) will be removed from your degree of impact calculation. Impacted individuals don't think about the job aspects that aren't affected, only those that are. Removing them from the impact score more accurately reflects what the impacted individuals would perceive the impact to be.
